The Affordability Report is an annual report published by the Alliance for Affordable Internet. It examines the policy and regulatory frameworks that have allowed some countries to make broadband internet access more affordable, accessible, and universal and seeks to understand what others can do to catch up quickly. Regional policy trends

Policy highlights from LDCs

DR Congo

In the DRC, licenses are awarded to network operators only after payment for each generation of technology they use: this puts an extra cost on network upgrades that could lead to a higher quality of service.

Madagascar

With a first-come-first-serve strategy for spectrum allocation, incumbent operators have taken up to hoarding large tranches of spectrum, leaving it underutilised and crowding out potential competitors.

Senegal

The Digital Senegal plan includes a high-level commitment to mainstream gender in all broadband policy decisions and also sets a clear target for a 33% rate of use of e-commerce and public services by the rural female population by 2025.

Haiti

High licensing fees for the late 4G/LTE switchover in Haiti derailed industry plans for deployment of the new technology and deferred a better quality of service for consumers.

Rwanda

Rwanda's Digital Ambassadors Programme, with 50% representation for women, addresses the challenges of digital literacy in an aim to unlock the transformative powers of technology for all.

Uganda

Together with regular industry consultations, the Ugandan regulator made developed new infrastructure sharing regulations to support the country's growing mobile sector and reduces infrastructure conflicts through its new infrastructure exchange platform.
